Tom Kline
Managing Partner of Kline & Specter

Tom Kline, whose Center City plaintiffs personal injury law firm, Kline & Specter, is one of the pre-eminent in the state, was responsible to the largest gift to Drexel University in the school's history. His donations include a $50 million to Drexel's eight-year-old law school and a historic building at 12th and Chestnut streets to house a trial advocacy center where students and practicing lawyers can earn LLM degrees in the subject. Kline also kept his hands in the biggest personal injury cases in the region, serving as one of the lead plaintiffs lawyers representing victims of the Amtrak 188 fatal crash.
